

CASE STUDY:

Microsoft Excel Automation GATE PETROLEUM COMPANY

As a non-profit founded in 1960, Gate Petroleum Company began as a single service station in Florida and later diversified into construction materials, manufacturing plants, clubs and resorts, real estate, and development, and various other enterprises. Gate operates eight precast concrete plants, four private clubs and several real estate holdings throughout the Southeast. In addition, the company operates 225 state-of-the-art service stations which is still their core business. Gate has consistently been able to outperform larger, stronger companies with its sophistication and automation.

VP, Information Systems
Gate Petroleum Co.

2 SITUATION & STRATEGY

Prior to the deployment of Spreadsheet Server, Gate was wrestling with its current financial management and a complicated monthly reporting process. In 2004, Gate integrated Spreadsheet Server into their financial operations. In 2015, Gate added JD Edwards as component to their data storage. Managing the general ledger became instantaneously simplified. Spreadsheet Server allows Gate to generate reports and directly extract the information they need faster and at less cost than previously.

7 PLATFORMS FOR SUCCESS

8 IN A NUTSHELL

Encouraged by being able to work in Excel without IT assistance, people started generating their own reports with a newfound creativity. By maximizing the user field in Infinium, Gate extended reporting down to the supervisor level which resulted in fast and accurate, daily business decisions.
