Loews Corporation Selects Global Software, Inc.'s Spreadsheet Server for use with JD Edwards®
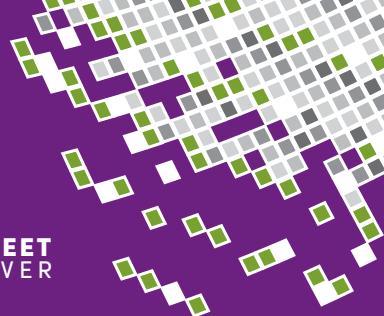

RALEIGH, NC USA (3rd August, 2015) — Global Software, Inc., the No. 1 provider of Microsoft® Excel-based automation and reporting tools to the leading enterprise resource planning (ERP) platforms, announces today that Loews Corporation, headquartered in New York City, New York, has selected Global's Spreadsheet Server for use with JD Edwards® powered by the QueryExchange™. Spreadsheet Server works as an intuitive, Excel based reporting platform, providing live financial and operational reporting and analysis from JD Edwards into Excel. This empowers end users with the ability to use familiar Excel features and functions to create dynamic dashboard views from JD Edwards. These views can be accessed, automated and presented with our formula driven methodology, including summary balances and detailed drill-downs. In addition, Loews Corporation will leverage the Distribution Manager publishing utility, which empowers users to automate the delivery of key business information.

Loews Corporation is focused on creating superior long-term returns for shareholders through a unique structure of diversified public and non-public holdings. Management's commitment to adhere to timeless principles of value investing are seen through their corporate structure, investment philosophy and financial strength. Today, Loews is made up of four principal subsidiaries: CNA Financial Corporation, Diamond Offshore Drilling, Inc., Boardwalk Pipeline Partners and Loews Hotels & Resorts.
